2) King Dice - Face Proportions

even negative space

Dice's face needs to maintain this negative space rule whenever he moves his head around or makes different expressions don't taper or wedge Dice's head shape

Scene	Duration	Panel	Duration
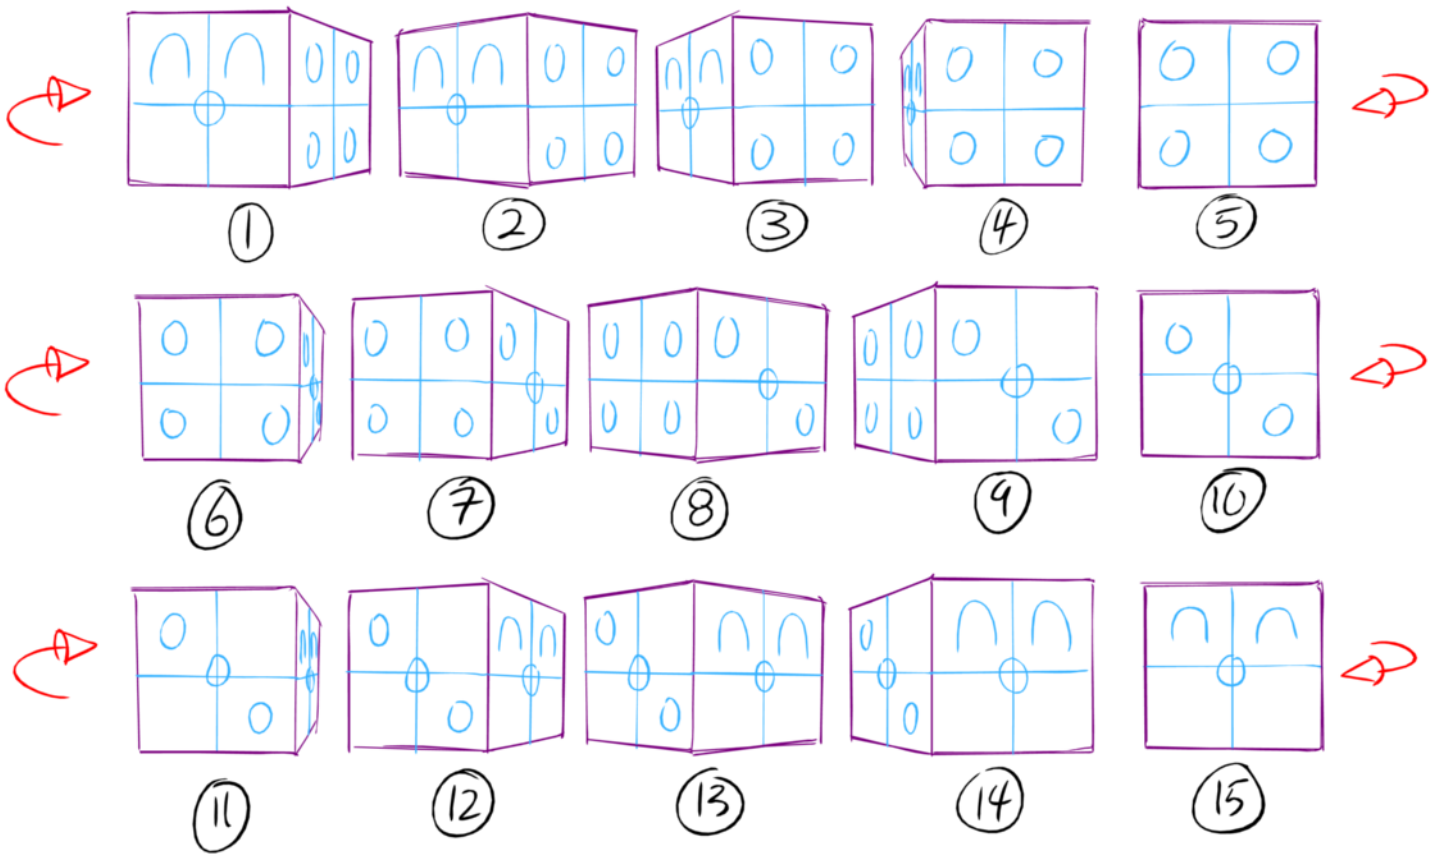
011	01:00:22	12	01:00

6) King Dice - Head Rotation



we want to cheat his face off when his face is rotating in profile generally, we would probably cheat it off in profile, unless he's being expressive

7) King Dice - Dots on Dice's head (note: the 1 dot is his nose)

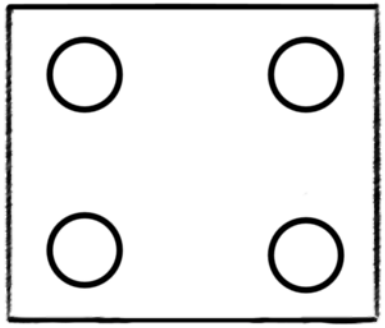
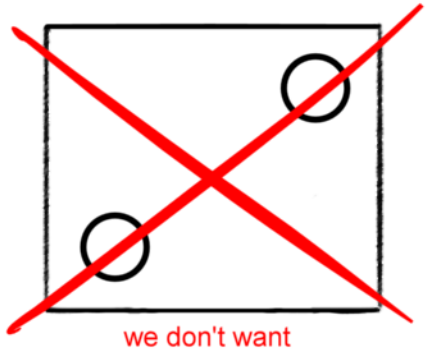
right



left



we don't want to see this on the underside of his head top

back

7) King Dice - Dots on Dice's head

dots should always remain in the same positions on Dice's head try maintain this negative space on all corners for all dotted sides dots can squash & stretch for extreme expressions

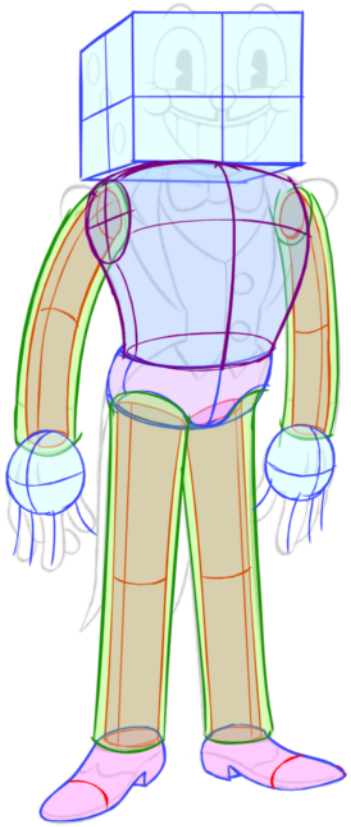
14) King Dice - Full Body Construction



Dice bends and moves in a way that a normal human can

He can still squash/stretch for expressive poses but he's probably our most grounded character

A character similar to this would be Manray on "SpongeBob SquarePants"
